

TAFT EXPLAINS MOVEMENT OF TROOPS DOWN IN TEXAS

SAYS THAT IT IS MERELY A PEACEFUL GATHERING OF ARMY FOR DEMONSTRATION OF ITS STRENGTH.

TALKS WITH JAP MINISTER

However it is still reported that men are being held in readiness for an invasion of Mexico if the opportune time comes.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—President Taft today invited the Japanese Ambassador Genda to a conference at the White House this afternoon. The president's object is to personally set at rest the various irresponsible stories published in the effect that army maneuvers in Texas and California were in a vague way directed toward Japan.

Surround Towns. Pecos, Texas, March 22.—The Mexican authorities have surrounded a number of towns in the interior of the war zone and have notified the inhabitants that no provisions will be allowed them from the surrounding countries.

Talk As to Mexico. President Taft and cabinet met today and the Mexican situation was discussed briefly. They are very well satisfied with the situation, but disapproved that Linaur has seen fit to seek a peace agreement by making statements to the effect that this government is but waiting an opportunity to get into Mexico. Such statements are entirely unwarranted and are regarded here as not calculated to bring on the whole good feeling.

Merely a Demonstration. That the troop mobilization in Texas was a martial demonstration in behalf of peace was the latest explanation on behalf of the administration today. It was pointed out that the recent world cruise of the American warships served as a similar warning to Japan.

WASHINGTON SHOWS LETTER FROM TAFT

Negro Educator Has Missive From President Expressing Confidence That No Harm Would Come to Washington's Work.

New York, March 22.—Booker T. Washington, the noted negro educator, today displayed a personal letter from President Taft, expressing confidence in him and the hope that no harm would come to his work as a result of the assault received by him at the hands of Henry A. Ulrich, the white carpenter. Washington said he had received more than 10,000 similar communications.

EDGERTON MEN IN PLEASANT MEETING

Men's Club of Congregational Church Were Given Address by J. F. Ward on Civic Movement.

Edgerton, March 22.—J. F. Ward of the Wisconsin university gave an illustrated address on the "Social and Civic Center Movement," under the auspices of the Men's club of the Congregational church, Tuesday evening. He was formerly a Presbyterian minister at Silver Creek, N. Y., and organized a social and civic club which was held in the parsonage of the church. From there he was called to take charge of the work at Rochester, N. Y.

He spoke of the opening of evening schools in Rochester for the people to hold meetings to discuss the leading topics of the day, and also a gymnasium for boys and girls, and playgrounds for the public. About two years ago he was called by the state university to take up the work in Wisconsin. He spoke of the work carried on in Milwaukee. He told of the meetings being held in the common council chamber of the city, where the people, irrespective of creed and political significance, gathered and discussed questions relating to city government.

Civic clubs are being formed at Stanley, La Crosse, Portage and several other towns in the state. He stated, in closing, that if you want to get rid of the saloons you have got to have a place where the men can go and spend a pleasant evening.

PLACE OF HEARING IS CHANGED TODAY

Antipathy to Senator Owen Is Cause of Changing Referendum Hearing Place to Supreme Court Chamber.

Springfield, Ill., March 22.—The place of holding the public referendum hearing has been changed from the hall of representatives to the supreme court chamber, following an expression of antipathy to Senator Owen.

KILLEEN BILL WAS PASSED TODAY BY THE STATE SENATE

Gives Prisoner Opportunity To Refuse To Take Stand In Own Behalf.

Madison, March 22.—The senate today by a vote of 20 to 10 adopted the Killeen resolution which provides a constitutional amendment allowing the state to compel accused persons to testify in his own behalf. Under the present amendment this privilege is optional with a prisoner. The resolution now goes to the assembly.

Settle Bancroft. The assembly today laid on the table for good and all the round robin which Attorney General Bancroft sent some days ago, in which he asserted the assembly was not complying with the law in not notifying him of committee hearings and other legislative steps. The assembly ordered an investigating committee which today declared the attorney general's charges were unfounded.

State Prison. Startling facts were alleged in connection with the management of the prison at Waupun, in a report filed with the governor today by Assemblyman Brookhausen, Social Democrat. The assemblyman charges that discipline surrounding prison affairs is exceedingly lax, in fact so lax that morphine, cocaine and other drugs are smuggled to the prisoners. He declared this condition was due to the "reform" theory of Warden Howie, who believes moral suasion is more valuable than corporal punishment in prison life. The charge sets forth that guards in the knitting factory in connection with the prison which employs convict labor, give to the prisoners anything they desire in order to get better work out of them. He suggests a reform.

Socialist Bills. Today spelled disaster for Socialist resolutions in the legislature. Four of them, providing for government ownership of railroads, croquet grounds, houses and grain elevators were killed. The Thomas measure providing four year terms for county officers instead of two and the Stern bill making the office of attorney general appointive instead of elective, met a similar fate.

Extends Term. Gov. McGovern today appointed Dr. P. H. Lindley of Chippewa Falls, as a member of the state board of control for the term ending April 1, 1916. The governor appointed a few days ago Dr. Lindley for a short term ending this year, but decided later to tender him the long term.

New Assistant. State Superintendent of public property William Egan today decided to appoint August Myers of Sheboygan assistant superintendent to succeed John Groves, who resigns April 1 to enter another field of work.

BADLY INJURED BY FLYING BELT

John Van Horn Residing Near Clinton, Had Arm Broken and Head and Shoulder Torn Yesterday.

Clinton, March 22.—John Van Horn, a young farmer living a few miles north of this place, was badly injured yesterday afternoon by a belt which was the propelling power for a circular saw. Van Horn was standing beside the belt which was driven by a gasoline engine and was struck on the left side of the head and neck, breaking his ear, bruising his left arm. He is also suffering from internal injuries which seriously affected his breathing. Dr. Thomas who had gone to Beloit for his new auto, was found at the garage and made a record run to the aid of the injured man. He was reported to be resting as well as could be expected today, but was pained considerably in swallowing and still suffered while breathing.

ATTORNEY APPOINTED IN DISBARMENT CASE

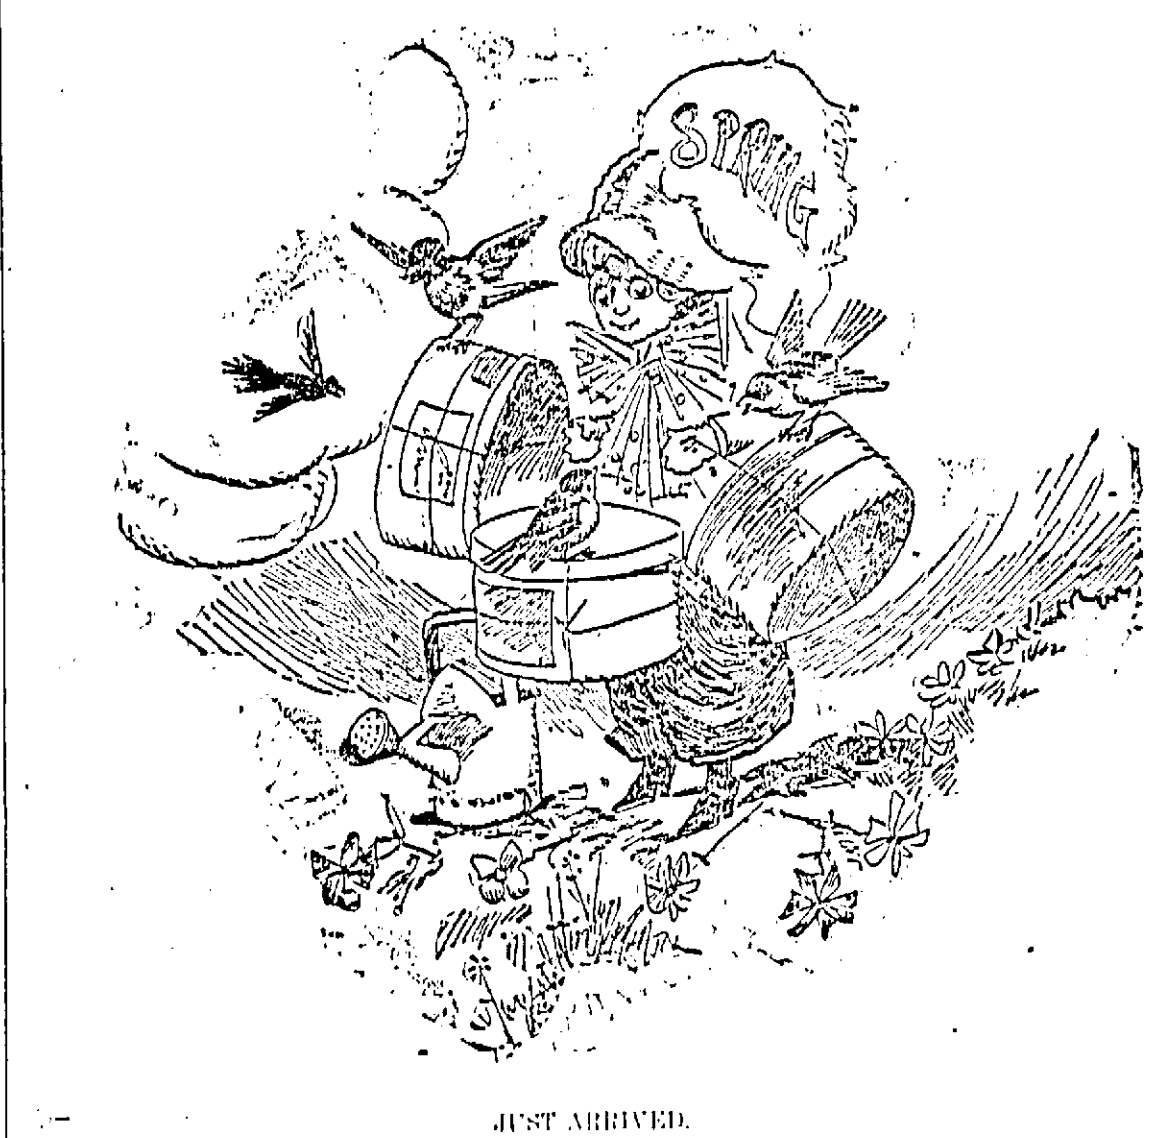

C. B. Bird of Wausau Will Conduct Proceedings Against District Attorney of Forest County.

Wausau, Wis., March 22.—Judge Bird of Rhinelander has appointed C. B. Bird of this city to prosecute the case in which disbarment proceedings are sought against J. C. Mars, former district attorney of Forest county, on charges of practicing by fraud and embezzlement. The charges were formally presented to the judge yesterday.

ATTEMPT TO ROB A BANK WAS FOILED

Yeggenmen Blew Dial From Vault, But Liveryman Frightened Them Away Before Cash Was Secured.

Appleton, Wis., March 22.—An attempt by three masked robbers to blow the vault of the State bank at Shiocton near here was foiled today by Harry Allender, a liveryman, who gave the alarm. An explosion of nitroglycerine which blew off the dial of the vault's outer door attracted the attention of Allender. The yeggenmen fired three shots at Allender and escaped on a railway hand car. There was $3000 in the vault.

JUST ARRIVED.

ANNUAL ARBOR AND BIRD BOOK IS OUT

Yearly Publication Appears Today Much Improved in Size and in Articles.—Conservation A Feature.

Madison, Wis., March 22.—The Wisconsin arbor and bird day annual, compiled by O. H. Rice, state library clerk, and issued by C. P. Cary, state superintendent, appeared today. The volume is by far the most pretentious and beautiful ever published. The size has been materially increased, containing 140 pages, a great number of which are half tone photographs of Wisconsin scenic spots. The governor's arbor and bird day proclamation, to be issued April 3, to designate Friday, May 5, as arbor and bird day, appears in front of the book. President Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin has the leading article, entitled "The Land," in which he dwells upon the value of phosphorus in the soil, treating the problem of the conservation of the phosphates as the "most far-reaching with reference to the future of this nation of all the problems of conservation." William L. Hall, assistant forester of the United States forest service, wrote on the work of the new federal forest products laboratory at Madison under the title, "How Wisconsin is Helping to Save the Forest Waste." His work will be well worth while, he says, "if ways can be found to utilize 1 per cent of the material which is now wasted. Even that would mean an annual saving of many million dollars." E. M. Griffith, state forester, contributes a splendidly illustrated article on "The Lesson of the Forest Fire of 1910," and tells how every one, even the boys and girls, can help to prevent such fires.

Conservation occupies a large space in the book. The resolutions of the conservation congress of 1910 are published. Extracts are made at the second report of Watersays Commissioner Ray S. Reid on "The Mississippi River as an aid in Conservation." Eben E. Rexford, the Shiocton forest, poet and writer, contributes an article on "Flowers for School Grounds." Frederick Cranfield of Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin State Historical society, writes on "The Beautifying of School Grounds." John Nolen, city planner, of Cambridge, Mass., landscape architect for the Wisconsin state park board, has an article on "Love of One's Own City." His report on state parks of Wisconsin are taken excerpts comprising perhaps the most interesting article in the volume, to which the illustrations add much charm. The Devil's lake region, the Delta of the Wisconsin, and the proposed state park on the Mississippi River at the mouth of the Wisconsin are freely pictured. C. E. Brown, chief of the museum of the state historical society, writes on the "Money-Ton Ambrosia." Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Mitchell, Milwaukee, have a beautifully illustrated article on "The Birds of Wisconsin," illustrated in colors, which forms a fitting close to the annual.

OLD WARSHIP SHOT TO PIECES TODAY

Battleship San Marcos, Formerly the "Texas," Destroyed by Gunners on the "New Hampshire."

On board U. S. Torpedo Boat Stringham, off Tangier Island, Chesapeake Bay, March 22.—Not satisfied with the reduction of the old battleship "Texas," now the San Marcos, to a useless mass of steel junk, the battleship "New Hampshire" today resumed its deadly fire. So far gone was the old battleship from yesterday's firing that the ordnance officers concluded today the vessel should be destroyed.

TELLS OF METHODS IN PREPARING HAIR

American Consul in China Denies Stories Of Human Hair Taken From Dead For Sale And Gives True Facts.

Washington, March 22.—Sensational stories circulated in this country about the origin of human hair imported from China have reached Consul George H. Anderson, at Hongkong, and today his report on the subject was made public. According to Anderson, shipments of human hair from Hongkong to the United States increased in value from $14,850 in 1907 to $365,157 in 1910. The exports to all other countries in 1910 were valued at $1,000,000. Much of the hair that formerly went out "raw" is now "finished," he reports, and is sent to Paris, whence it is exported to the United States as French hair.

"The origin of the hair shipped from Hongkong," says Anderson, "and indeed from all China so far as information can be secured from the best resources here, is vastly different from that indicated by many stories published broadcast the world over. The report that much of the hair shipped was taken from the dead is not only untrue of the Chinese trade but it is inconsistent with Chinese thought. The hair shipped abroad from this Empire is mostly women's. A Chinese woman, dressing her hair, discards her tresses and sells to a barber the combings that were formerly thrown away. Barbers also obtain considerable hair from plucking their clients. The vast mass of the hair shipped abroad and involved for the United States is in the shape of little wands or twistings. Seldom, if ever, are full heads of hair to be taken, nor are quinquies used. It is one of the strange facts of the trade that although thousands of quinquies have been cut in Hongkong in the past several months—some 15,000 in the report—the hair has not been sold. A local hair establishment is working off an American expert in winding hair into the most intricate shapes for the export trade. The hair is first combed in soft soap, and ammonia, and then treated to four or five chemicals, according to its condition, to sterilize, preserve, and render it fit for use. It is then bleached, washed again, and prepared in different colors and packed.

GETTLE REFERENDUM PLAN IS COMPLETED

Now In Hands of Assembly Committee on Constitutional Amendment.—Approved By Governor.

Madison, Wis., March 22.—The draft of the initiative and referendum plan to be offered for adoption by the Wisconsin legislature in fulfillment of a public pledge has been completed, and the assembly committee on constitutional amendment has begun consideration thereof. The plan as worked out by Assemblyman Gettle, Edgerton, is said to be endorsed by Gov. McGovern, and as it differs widely from the Oregon plan gets additional favor from the executive, who is not partial to the latter plan.

The Gettle plan provides for referendum to the people of any law passed by the legislature when this is petitioned for by 8 per cent of the voters. Any proposed amendment to the constitution must be referred to the people upon petition for a referendum vote must be filed with the secretary of state within 90 days after the legislature has adjourned, and the measures voted upon at the next regular state election, occurring not less than 30 days after the filing of the referendum petition, or at an earlier election called by the governor in not less than 30 days after the petition has been received. Any measure shall become effective upon receiving a majority of the votes cast on the subject at the election.

Emergency measures may be passed by the legislature by two-thirds of each house on separate roll calls, when such measures shall be deemed necessary for the "immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety." If a referendum petition be filed against an emergency law, it shall remain in force until repealed by the people. The vote power of the governor shall not extend to measures adopted by a referendum vote. Referendum petitions shall bear the names of at least 2 per cent of the voters from at least four congressional districts.

Provision is made for the submission of so-called "competing" measures which are defined as "those which seek to accomplish in any manner substantially the results." It is provided that only one of a number of competing measures which receive the greater number of votes shall stand as an enactment by the people. Although there is no direct provision for the initiative, it is argued that in a legislature of 133 members, it should never be impossible to find one or more men willing to introduce a bill at the request of any citizen.

A POINT WAS LOST IN FEDERAL COURT BY JUDGE'S RULING

Packers Must Stand Trial for Violation of the Anti Trust Laws in the Decision.

Chicago, March 22.—The indicted Chicago packers lost their fight against going to trial on the indictments secured by the government several months ago when Judge Carpenter of the United States district court today overruled their demurrer to the charges and held the immunity granted them by the federal government in 1906, did not apply to the present charges, which he held were based on evidence not included in the Humphrey decision.

United States District Attorney Stone and his aides maintained the latest indictments were based on evidence of violations of the anti-trust law which have occurred within the last three years. Judge Carpenter denied the government's motion to strike out the packers' plea in abatement from the record and instructed the government to reply to the plea.

The packers were instructed to be in court March 27th and report what action they propose to take. They were given twenty days by the court in which to file exceptions, the order given today being without appeal.

SOLONS WOULD TIE BANCROFT'S HANDS

Enemies of Attorney General in Legislature Seeking to Cripple Man Who Was Elected Over Their Heads.

Madison, Wis., March 22.—The disposition to secure the passage of legislation tying the hands of the attorney general, and giving him little more to do than to sit in his office with his hands folded, is becoming intensified. This sentiment exists principally among certain republican members of the senate, but in the assembly several members are looking for the senate to do something along this line.

The enemy toward Attorney General Bancroft, caused primarily by his success in being elected against the wishes of the leaders of the dominant faction of the republican party, is without parallel, and his activity in effecting the collection of large inheritance taxes and more recently in opening the way for an attack on the civil service law has egged on legislative leaders who do not care to see him achieve success in his administration.

Already three different bills have been drawn, but these have been rejected as not sufficiently comprehensive. It has been determined to take out of the attorney general's department the collection of inheritance taxes, and further legislation laying the effect of nullifying his official opinions is contemplated. Reduction of his office force probably will be attempted. There is already pending a bill to permit the governor alone to designate special counsel, without the consent of the attorney general, as is now provided.

In the meantime, Attorney General Bancroft is going about his work serenely, as though nothing were happening around him. It is said of him that he loves a fight, better than anything else and is prepared to do wordy battle for recognition when the proper time comes. The fight will come when bills to curtail his powers and encroach on his duties are taken up in committee, and when the kind of fireworks typical of the speaker of the assembly will be touched off.

The police were called but found no trace of the intruders.

TUESDAY'S PRIMARIES ARE OF INTEREST TO VOTERS

DULIN AND SPOHN WIN OUT IN THE FIFTH AND FOURTH WARD CONTESTS.

LARGE VOTE IN TWO WARDS

Fifield and Nichols Named As Mayorality Candidates for the Two Parties.

Tuesday's primary election demonstrated several features of the spring campaign that were looked for. It was expected that the spirited contests in the Fourth and Fifth Wards would bring out a large vote, but the total of 465 in the Fifth ward was looked for by even the most sanguine politician in the city. It was a merry war all day, and the final count which showed Dulin the winner of the hard fought contest by ninety-one majority, was the result of the most strenuous campaign of years.

The battle in the Fourth was also most interesting and while their total figure is larger than that of the Fifth, a total of 496 votes being cast for alderman, still the ward is larger, but it however shows that there was unusual interest displayed. James F. Spohn, the successful candidate defeated present alderman W. C. Rehfeld by 21 plurality, having a total of 255 votes to Rehfeld's 234. A. W. Hall the prohibition candidate receiving 7 votes.

These were the only two wards in the city where there was any contest for nomination and they brought out the full strength of the democratic party. Owing to the unusual interest on the part of the democrats, to secure as big a vote as possible with the exception of the Third Ward, where they had no democratic ward ticket out, they polled more votes than the republican candidates.

The total vote of John C. Nichols for Mayorship, nomination by the democrats was 1119 and that of James Fifield, republican, 429. Howard prohibitionist received 11. Two years ago at the primaries W. F. Carle the republican nominee had a total of 852

Common Council of Tobacco City Has Finally Voted To Buy Much Needed Equipment.

Edgerton, March 22.—For a number of years the city of Edgerton has been in sore need of a fire alarm system and at the meeting last night of the common council provisions were made to meet that demand. A committee from the fire department was empowered to purchase an alarm system and a new bell tower. The tower will be erected on property adjacent to the city hall.

At the same meeting the council provided for the removal of all yard hydrants and that all pipes be laid to take water from basements of buildings.

Did it ever occur to you that if it wasn't for the need of heat in your kitchen in winter you would like to cook with gas altogether? The heater shown burns coal, coke or wood (no gas) and can be attached to any gas stove. votes on primary day, V. P. Richardson 511, and W. H. Macdon the third candidate, 82; making a total of 1455 or 222 more republican votes cast at that primary than yesterday. Nichols received but 353 democratic votes for the nomination, while Fifield yesterday, with no contest on in three wards to call out the voters and the two democratic contests in the Fourth and Fifth to draw from the republican ranks had 429.

When it is considered that at the last national election the Fifth ward only polled a total of 310 votes, while yesterday the total vote at the primary was 465, it will be understood what efforts were made to get the vote out. The Fourth ward also almost reached its regular national election vote of 531 in 1908.

In the aldermanic nominations, E. J. Schmidley in the First ward, the democratic candidate, polled more votes than Weber, republican, the same was true in the Second, with Connell, democrat, against Scott, republican, the Third had no democratic candidate and Shurtliff received a total of 150 for nomination. In the Fourth and Fifth there was no contest on the republican tickets. The following is the table of the vote for all offices by wards and office:

PLATFORM ANNOUNCED FOR THE CAMPAIGN

James Fifield, Republican Candidate For Mayor Makes Formal Statement This Afternoon.

In speaking of the result of the primaries held yesterday which nominated him as the choice of the republicans for the office of Mayor, James Fifield said this afternoon:

"Having received the nomination for Mayor at the primaries I feel that I should make some statement of the grounds on which I ask the support of the voters at the coming election. I have never owned any stock, nor been interested in any way in a public utility corporation, have never held a political office, and am absolutely free to conduct the office of Mayor so far as lies in my power with equal fairness and justice to all concerned. My business is in such shape that I can give my time first to the needs of the city, and this I purpose to do. If elected I hope to work so in harmony with the members of the Council and the different departments, that together we can give the City a clean business like administration."

JOHN C. NICHOLS.

CANDIDATE NICHOLS OUTLINES POLICIES

Democratic Mayorality Aspirant Thanks His Friends For Their Loyal Support Yesterday.

Democratic nominee John C. Nichols is very pleased with the support given him by the voters at the polls Tuesday, in nominating him for Mayor on the democratic ticket. "The vote even in the wards where there were no contests was most gratifying to him, and he made the following statement relative to the matter this afternoon:

"A careful analysis of the vote as shown me that my candidacy for the office of Mayor of Janesville meets with the approval of the voters of the city generally. I was most gratified with the vote cast for me in the three wards where there was no contest to call the voters to the polls and desire to thank my friends for their support.

"I have made no pledges to anyone and if elected Mayor will take up the duties of that office unrestricted as to the influence of any public corporation, or element of society. I will endeavor to give Janesville a good business like administration as far as it is in my power. I believe in the future of the city and shall work with the interests that have for their object a bigger, and better city.

"The vote of Tuesday has given me renewed confidence I desire to express my appreciation to my friends and supporters for the honor they have conferred upon me by making me their choice for the office of Mayor and ask their support at the polls on April 4, the general spring election day."

FREIGHT WRECK
NEAR BROWNTOWNFour Cars and Caboose Were Derailed
Near Browntown Yesterday—
One Car Contained Dynamite—No One Injured.

Freight train number 165 in charge of Conductor J. McCue, miraculously escaped a serious wreck yesterday morning when four cars and a caboose, the rear box car containing a full load of dynamite, left the track one mile east of Browntown. There was no one injured, however, and the only damage was to the cars, and that was not as bad as might have been expected. The track also was torn up for some rods.

The exact cause of the wreck is not known, but one possibility is that the trucks of one of the cars turned, causing the derailment, and another cause might be that the brake shoe dropped down on the track. The front end of the caboose, it is said, was jammed into the car containing the dynamite and some of the boxes of the explosive were torn open and thrown on the floor of the caboose. That an explosion did not occur is little short of marvelous as the force of the job was considerable. If such had occurred there would undoubtedly have been a dire disaster.

A wrecking crew was sent out from Milwaukee to clear up the tracks and repair damages. Passengers had to be transferred yesterday but the track was cleared so that No. 7 went through last evening. There were fourteen passengers in the caboose at the time of the crash but none of them were hurt.

SEVERAL RUNS ARE NOW
BULLETIN FOR ENGINEERS

Runs 165, 166, 91 and 92 on the Mineral Point division are now open to engineers for acceptance under bulletin for a period of 30 days. These runs will be divided into four distinct jobs: 91 and 165 with a Sunday lay-over at Janesville; 166 and 92 also with Sunday lay-over here; 92 and 165 with Sunday lay-over at Mineral Point; and 166 and 91 with Sunday lay-over in the same place. Regular engines will be assigned to these runs and the oldest engineer will be given the preference as to choice.

Chicago & North-Western.

A change has been made in the drivers on trains 511 and 512, and 505 and 506. They are cut off at Janesville under the present schedule instead of at Madison as formerly.

The down town switch-engine goes to work at 5:30 in the morning instead of 7:00 as formerly. Engineer Tallman and Fireman Lewis are in charge.

Engineers Sullivan and Tates and Fireman Granth and Kothlow double-headed out of South Janesville to Chicago on No. 586 yesterday.

David Griffin, who has been laying off on account of sickness, returned to work on the pilot job this morning. Conductor Hayes of Chicago had been relieving him.

Engineer John Coen is laying off on the half and half switch-engine job.

Hugh Wagner, pitman, was laying off last night.

W. W. Hoffman, roundhouse foreman, was in Chicago yesterday on company business.

Frank Lawson, machinist, has returned to work after a three days' lay-off on account of sickness.

Fireman Frank Dooley is relieving Fireman Davey on the seven o'clock switch-engine job, and Engineer Bier is taking the place of Engineer Starret on the same job.

Engineer Shumway and Fireman Davey have been assigned to runs No. 583 and 581, between Chicago and Janesville.

Cornelius Cronin, switch-tender at the Five Points, was laying off yesterday. He was relieved by Switchman Hans Behrendt.

THEATERS

Glenn Dillard Dan comments on follows in the "Inter Ocean" in regard to the New York Symphony Orchestra. "The certainty with which the orchestra responded to Mr. Danrosch's wishes and intentions was cause for much satisfaction to the many friends and well-wishers of the organization who have followed its fortunes during the past four years with such keen interest. They have seen it grow from a weak and unresponsive body of players to one of the foremost orchestras in the country. Today it is fluent in the vital matters of tone color and dynamics. A more beautiful pliancy than was attained by the New York players in the second movement of the symphony it has never been my good fortune to hear in Orchestra Hall." They will be here Friday the 25th.

A Preventive of Tea Kettle Scale

Every housewife who lives where water is hard, knows how the lime and other salts form a coating on the inside of the kettle. This may be largely prevented, and the outside of the kettle kept free from soot and grease, by washing thoroughly inside and outside every day or so, with hot water and Gold Dust.

The hard lime and other salts are dissolved by the Gold Dust and the inside of the kettle will be kept smooth much longer if thus cared for. Be sure to rinse thoroughly with clear warm water, then refill with cold water for heating.

What the Actual Saving In Dollars and Cents Means to the Skavlem Piano Club Member

The Skavlem Piano Club is being organized to buy two hundred pianos. The pianos were bought away below what they are actually worth.

To the purchaser who wants to buy a good, dependable, trustworthy piano, they are worth and would be well bought at three hundred and seventy-five dollars. The Club will pay two hundred and seventy seven dollars and a half apiece for them—the price to include everything—even to the privilege of paying for them at the rate of one dollar and a quarter a week.

This is an actual saving of ninety-seven dollars and a half—what does this mean?

It means that a member of the Skavlem Piano Club gets as good a piano as his neighbor paid $375 for—and has enough money left on which to take a three weeks' vacation and have over $30 a week to spend.

It means that he can pay for 130 music lessons at 75 cents a lesson or 194 music lessons at 50 cents a lesson on what he saves.

It means that he saves 27 per cent of the money he has to spend for a piano.

It means that he can take the money he saves ($97.50) and loan it out at 8 per cent interest and it will earn him $7.80 a year.

This big Skavlem Piano Club presents an opportunity to the careful and prudent buyer that cannot be lightly passed. These are the figures. You can not ignore them. You can't contradict them.

The Actual Figures of the Skavlem Club As a Whole

The real value of these 200 pianos, if sold at their actual worth, is $75,000.

They will sell to the Skavlem Piano Club for $55,500.

The minimum saving to the Club is $19,500.

It will take 14 solid carloads, or nearly one train load, to deliver this order.

The freight will amount to over $500, or approximately $2½ a carload.

The club is given a grand total of 15,100 weeks, 236 years, longer in which to pay for their instruments than if each member was to buy independently upon usual terms.

The saving to the club, if placed at interest at 8 per cent, would earn one thousand six hundred and forty dollars a year.

The saving that the club will make in the aggregate would pay one annual dividend of about 5 per cent on $100,000.

The saving of $97.50 to each Club member would pay almost four months' house rent at the rate of $25 a month. It would pay the first installment on the purchase of a home.

The Saving of $97.50 is Not All a Skavlem Piano Club Member Gets

A Skavlem Piano Club member gets advantages and privileges that piano buyers do not always get.

He gets advantages and privileges that mean as much, if not more, than the saving of the $97.50—and he gets them in writing. Let us enumerate them:

FIRST. He gets a guarantee for ten years that guarantees, and he gets it in writing over the signature of L. N. Skavlem.

SECOND. He gets his money back if he wants it any time within 30 days.

THIRD. He gets a whole year's trial of the piano with the privilege of exchanging it.

FOURTH. He gets the privilege of paying as little as One Dollar and a Quarter a week without increasing the cost of the piano above the Club price ($277.50).

FIFTH. He is given the privilege of reducing the Club price by paying faster than a Dollar and a Quarter a week.

SIXTH. He gets his piano tuned twice free.

SEVENTH. He is given life insurance that provides for the cancellation of all unpaid payments in event of his death during the life of his contract, so that the piano will be turned over to his family free from all incumbrances—and he gets this in writing, also.

(Extract from a personal statement of Mr. Skavlem made ten days ago, when this club was first announced):

I have considerable pride in this deal. Next to the decision to open a Music Store in Janesville, I consider this the most important piano transaction I have ever made. It will save several tens of thousands of dollars of money to the 200 persons who go to form this big club—money they can use to pay for musical instruction, in taking a vacation trip, or whatever use they see fit to make of it.

BURGLAR SECURES COSTLY DIAMONDSTHIEF ENTERED REXFORD HOME AND OBTAINED SEVERAL PIECES OF JEWELRY.*WORK OF A PROFESSIONAL

Loss Not Discovered Until This Morning—Also Entered the W. F. Palmer Home on Court Street.

Work of a clever story worker at the residence of John G. Rexford on Shucraft street last night netted the thief several hundred dollars worth of jewelry including a diamond "sunburst" bracelet, a diamond and lock, diamond pins, coral dog collar, valuable cameo pin, a rhinestone parure and other odds and ends of Mrs. Rexford's jewel box. Entrance was obtained by means of a ladder which reached nearly to Mrs. Rexford's bedroom window and an open window made further entrance easy.

It is evident the man was slender and of medium height as the marks of his feet on the side of the house where he drew himself up, can be plainly seen. The ladder, a light one, had evidently been brought from some distance and was too short to reach the window so the thief drew himself up from the top.

The robbery was not discovered until this morning when the ladder was found leaning against the house, and later the "sunburst" a wedding present to Mrs. Rexford from her husband, discovered missing. The police were notified and an investigation led to the belief it was the work of experts who paid the city a flying visit after having "pulled off" a similar trick in Beloit the night before.

The loss of the other jewelry, which was in a corner of the top drawer of the dresser, was not discovered until this afternoon. Mrs. Rexford's rings, which were concealed in another part of the room, and a handsome solid watch and her wedding ring were on a table, but were not taken.

The window was left up several inches when Mrs. Rexford retired and the "sunburst" was left on the top of the dresser. The remainder of the jewelry was in the room. Several bits of burned matches were found on the floor of the room near the dresser this morning when the investigation was made, and it is evident that the thief took his time and then made a hasty exit when Mrs. Rexford awakened, as she did about half past three, leaving his ladder standing against the house.

Another entrance of a third ward home was also reported to the police although nothing was taken. The residence of W. F. Palmer on Court street was entered about 2:30, the burglar climbing up the porch and then entering the window of Miss Florence Palmer's room. Miss Palmer was awakened by the noise and saw the man sitting on the edge of the window. She frightened to move and started crawling toward her bed.

As he neared the bed Miss Palmer jumped out and ran into the hall, calling her father and brother. During the excitement the man made good his escape, slipping down one of the porch posts, leaving a plain track of his movements by mud which had been on his feet. Marks outside showed that he crossed the road after the raid of the night before to the C. W. Rexford lot where there is some earth and thence into the Palmer house.

Miss Palmer obtained a good view of the man and describes him as of slender build. There is no doubt but it is the same man who entered the Rexford home either before or after the attempted robbery at the Palmer home and all his actions bear the hall marks of a professional. It is a good time for such work as it is too early for screens to be placed in the windows and warm enough for outside night work.

Mrs. Rexford had worn her "sunburst" last evening and remembers distinctly of placing it on the dresser. It is believed that the thief was frightened away before securing more plunder as he could easily have made a rich haul owing to the fact that a dinner party was held at the Rexford home last evening and the silver had not been replaced in its boxes.

Little Bed-Time Tales

By EDITH HAVENS

Why No One Loved Him

A LADY-BUG, of a lovely crimson color with black spots, sat on a weed and beside her was a potato-beetle. "Good morning, Miss Lady-bug," greeted the potato-beetle.

She replied, "Good morning, sir. But, really, with you would address me by my proper name which is Coccinella."

"A pretty name, too," remarked he, "and it seems to fit you for you are pretty yourself."

"You flatter me," she smiled, adding, "Don't you think it rather a long name for so small a person?"

"It would be inconvenient to say if one wanted to call you in a hurry," he agreed. "I notice that children do not so address you when they tell you that your house is on fire and your children will burn."

"Oh, that old rhyme is all nonsense. My house never is on fire and there is no danger of my children burning."

"Then why do you always fly away when the children say it?" he asked.

"Probably because at the moment I happen to think of an engagement I want to keep. But speaking of names," the lady-bug went on, "I dare say you have a name besides the one people commonly use when they speak of you?"

"Well, I should say I have," he exclaimed. "The old scientist who named me wanted to use the whole row of A, B, C's, and some of them over again. To be perfectly frank, and just between ourselves, the only time I can remember the whole of my name is in the morning when my head is perfectly clear. The part that I can remember isn't so bad. It is Doryphora."

"It is quite pretty," declared Miss Coccinella. "It sounds like the name of a girl. Are you sure you have it right?"

"Look in the dictionary if you don't believe me. You will find it under the word 'potato-beetle.' I am not really bad looking, now, am I?" inquired the potato-beetle anxiously.

"Not at all. Your stripes are becoming," she returned.

"In spite of our poetical name and respectable appearance, the farmers hate potato-beetles worse than poison, in fact they buy the poison and feed it to us. I cannot understand it, for they are very friendly to your family."

Miss Coccinella replied, "Members of my family destroy the enemies of certain trees and plants and that is why the farmers are fond of us. You destroy the vegetables themselves instead of their enemies, which you see is quite a different thing. People are loved or disliked according to their habits, you know." And the potato-beetle became wrapped in thought.

Ingenious Spider Web. Spiders have a number of ingenious ways of alluring and catching their prey. A writer describes an American spider which hunts evergreen trees, and snares its dinner by means of a kind of basket. The web of the spider is triangular in form. Two corners of the triangle are attached to twigs, but the other corner, which ends in a single thread, is held by the spider, perched on a neighboring twig. When a fly strikes the web the spider lowers his hold and the elastic threads instantly entangle the victim.

TURKS FLOAT BIG WAR LOAN

Germany Heavily Oversubscribe the $50,000,000 Army and Navy Fund of Ottoman Empire.

Berlin, March 22.—Subscriptions for the Turkish loan of 27,000,000 Turkish (approximately $31,500,000) were opened and closed immediately, having been heavily oversubscribed. The loan was taken by a syndicate of German and Austrian banks, including the Rothschilds, at the head of which is the Deutsche bank. The price is 81, with interest at 4 per cent, and the coupon revenues of Constantinople pledged as security.

Liberty Tree Gone.

In the first days of the French revolution in 1793 the patriots planted many "liberty" trees; in 1792 there were counted more than 60,000 of them in France, and Paris had its share.

When the Bourbons came into power again after Waterloo the government gave strict orders that these hated symbols of the revolt against monarchy should be searched out, and not only cut down, but dug up by the roots.

New plantings of liberty trees marked the revolution of 1848; and in a few months a government official was found to demand the destruction of the seditious growths.

These two crusades naturally left few of the trees; but some escaped, even in Paris. Of these one of the very last was cut down a few days ago. It had formed part of the decoration of the fountain in the square Louvre. It had been a beautiful tree, but old age was too powerful for it.

Unnecessary Questions.

Dobbleigh had just come upon Hawkins standing in the middle of the road with his motor car turned completely upside down and surrounded by a crowd of curious onlookers.

"Hello, Hawkins!" said he, stopping his own car. "What's the matter? Car turned turtle?"

"Not at all, Dobbleigh, not at all," replied Hawkins. "These kids here wanted to see how the machinery works, so I hired a derelict and had the car turned upside down just to please the little dears."—Harper's Weekly.

LUCKY.

"I am afraid," said the doctor, after he had thumped the gentleman on the chest and again and again tried his pulse, "that there is something radically wrong with your heart. I don't want to scare you, but be careful about running to catch trains and don't hurry when you go upstairs. If you are careful you may live for years. Still, if you have not made your will and arranged your affairs so that they would be in good condition if you were suddenly taken off it might be well for you to attend to those matters. I would not tell you this if I did not feel that it was—"

"Thank heaven!"

"What do you mean?"

"Now, I'll have an effective excuse when life insurance agents come to see me and I wish to get rid of them in a hurry. Just put it all in writing, will you, doc?"

Growing Beet Sugar in England. Remarkable success has attended the efforts of growers of sugar beets in Herefordshire, England. A good high average for a crop is 15 tons to the acre of roots bearing 15 per cent. of sugar. The Herefordshire farmers, in spite of rough and ready methods and small knowledge of the crop, grew up to 27½ tons to the acre, with a sugar content of 19 per cent. The purity of the sugar was exceptionally high.

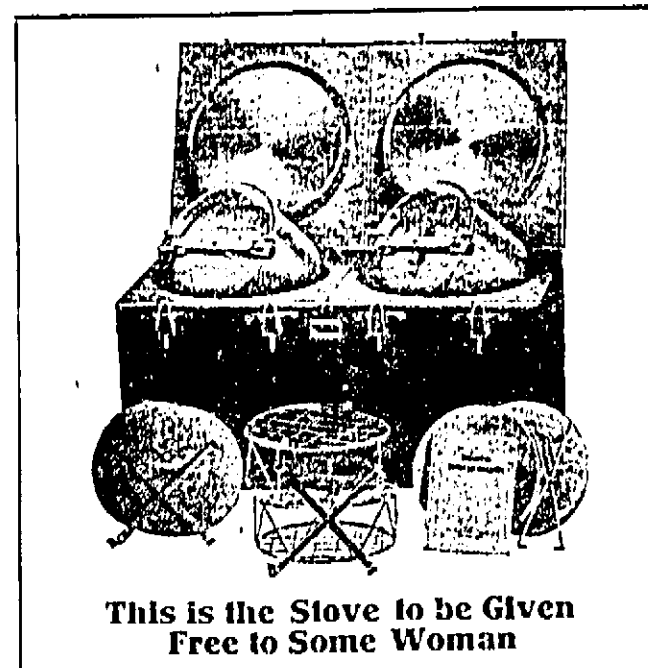

A Risky Business.

"A reporter in a western town has been ordered to count all the joints there."

"Is he making any progress?"

"Yes, I understand he has already counted 600 elbows."

"Huh! When he starts to counting knees he'll get into trouble."

RETAIL MERCHANTS
IN MADISON TODAY

Committee From Local Grocers' Association Spoke At Hearing Regarding Labelling of Corn Syrup.

Walter Taylor, W. F. Carle and J. H. Jones, members of a committee appointed by the Retail Grocers' association of this city, were in Madison today to speak before one of the committees of the legislature regarding action to be taken by the legislature concerning a well known brand of corn syrup. State Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Q. Emery is fighting to have a law passed whereby the syrup must be labelled "adulterated," but the company manufacturing it, and the local grocers want the name left as it is. The principal objection voiced by the retail merchants is that the change of name cuts down the sale of the goods and gives the grocers of other states, where such label is not required, an unfair advantage. The committee went to Madison at the invitation of Assemblyman Grant U. Fisher of this district.

FOR A LOST ENGINE

Chicago and Northwestern Wants To Discover Whereabouts of Oldest Locomotive in Its Service.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Hidden in some out of the way spot in St. Louis is a big railroad locomotive that has been lost or misplaced ever since the World's Fair. The engine is the property of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. Efforts are being made to trace it.

The locomotive is named the Pioneer. It was the first steam engine to run out of Chicago at the beginning of the railway era.
The Pioneer was retired from active service years ago. It was kept as a memento of the early days of railroading, and occupied a prominent position in the transportation building at the Columbian exposition in Chicago. It was then turned over to the Field museum and was kept there until the Louisiana Purchase exposition in St. Louis, 1904, where it was again exhibited.

It was removed promptly at the close of the exposition and recently W. A. Gardner, president of the Northwestern railway, thought of the Pioneer and he directed the general agent of the road in St. Louis to find the lost locomotive.

A Few Bunches of Words.
The other day a little girl was looking at a picture of a number of war vessels when she suddenly looked up at me and exclaimed: "See what a flock of ships!" I corrected her by saying that a flock of ships was called a fleet, and a fleet of sheep was called a flock.

And here the American teacher might take the subject up for the benefit of his little brown pupils who are trying to master the intricacies of the English language, and explain to them that a flock of wolves is called a pack, and that a pack of thieves is called a gang, and a gang of angels is called a host, and a host of porpoises is called a shoal, and a shoal of carabons is called a herd, and a herd of quail is called a covey, and a covey of beauties is called a galaxy, and a galaxy of ruffians is called a horde, and a horde of rubbish is called a heap, and a heap of cattle is called a drove, and a drove of blackguards is called a mob, and a mob of worshippers is called a congregation, and a congregation of soldiers is called a corps, and a corps of locusts is called a band, and a band of people is called a crowd, and a miscellaneous crowd of city gents is called the public—and the public must pay the tax.—Philadelphia Monthly.

"God save to King, an' her Grace to Duke O'Argyll!—Everybody's."

Restaurant Talk.
Two young women were talking over their restaurant luncheon the other day about the quality of a certain prima donna's voice.

"O, she can sing," cried one of them, enthusiastically, "she certainly can sing. Music like that would coax Apollo from his lyre."

The other girl flushed and looked troubled. After a slight pause she spoke in gentle reproach.

"I don't want to correct you, dear," she said. "But don't you think that word is usually pronounced 'lyre'?" It is spelled 'lyre,' you know.—Philadelphia Times.

Almost Providential.
"I understand your house was entered by burglars last night, Mrs. Jones," said the reporter. "What did they carry away?"

"O, they got a gold spoon or two, I believe, and a lot of silver plate," answered the smiling matron; "but thank goodness, they overlooked two books of trading stamps that I've been nearly three years in filling!"

ACT OF A REAL HERO.

JUMPS FROM SICK BED TO RISK LIFE FOR OTHERS.
When Bystanders Reluctant to Face Peril He Goes Alone in Skiff to Rescue Men From Ragging Torrent.

An act of heroism, which was considered worthy of record, occurred September 29, 1906, with Charles Arms in the role of hero.

The accident which resulted in his display of bravery occurred on the Louisville & Nashville railroad at a bridge spanning the Cumberland river at Clarksville. The draw was open to permit the passage of a steamboat, but the engineer of a passenger train failed to stop his train, and the locomotive and two cars plunged through the open draw into the river, which was flooded high, with a swift current, and full of floating drift.

The engineer was killed. Two mail clerks, J. G. Martin and Thomas A. Frazer, and the baggage man, Robert L. Morris, were in the cars which went over. Although they were badly injured they managed to climb out of the cars and to obtain places of temporary safety on the roofs. It was night, and dark. The cars floated down stream with the current.

Arms, who lived on the banks of the river a short distance below, was in his bed with malarial fever. He heard the noise of the accident, and his little daughter came running to his room with the news of it. He immediately arose, and without taking time to clothe himself, ran out and jumped into a skiff. He appealed to some of the bystanders to go with him to the assistance of the persons on the drifting cars, but nobody would accompany him on the dangerous mission. They told him it was madness for him to go out alone, that if the current did not swamp him persons leaping from the cars into his frail boat would. But in spite of his ill condition Arms went out, and alone. He passed the baggage car, with Morris on top. But as the mail car was drifting further down stream toward a dangerous eddy, he put out after that one first, finally came up with it and took off Martin and Frazer. Returning he picked up Morris also and landed all three safely on shore. The president shortly afterward had the honor of sending Arms, although he was not a railroad man, one of those hero medals which are the red badges of courage in the whole railroad world in America.

Curling the Whistle.
The laws of Massachusetts give the railroad commissioners power to suspend whistling upon approaching a grade crossing, and numerous collisions are annually brought by those who are disturbed by those alarms, when given at night, to have them suspended. Favorable action is usually the result if the crossing is properly guarded. It is petitions of this character that permits a train running between Boston and Braintree to go the entire distance without a yelp from the locomotive whistle, although a number of level crossings intervene.

Locomotive whistles are divided into three classes, viz.: The shrill, deep and chiming. The latter was, at one time, generally used on the New Haven road, and its adoption is said to have been due to a whim of one of the company's officials.

It will be noticed that the whistle is located upon the dome of the locomotive, the end nearest to the cab. This is due to the fact that the steam pressure is greatest at this point, and means that the whistle, when blown, will reach a maximum of intensity.

Railroads' Heavy Toll of Life.
During the months of July, August and September last the number of persons killed in train accidents was 231, while 3,893 were injured. These facts are disclosed in a bulletin issued by the Interstate Commerce commission, the first bulletin issued under the revised Accident law. It includes many accidents not heretofore included in accident bulletins.

The accident statistics of these electric lines on which interstate traffic is carried show 146 persons killed and 1,070 injured.

Train a Mile Long.
A freight train more than a mile in length left Fresno, the other night and arrived safely in Bakersfield. The train was composed of 125 refrigerator cars that had accumulated in the local yards. As there was a big demand for them further south the operating department of the road decided to make them up into one train and haul them with one engine. The feat was successful. The engine, 125 cars and the caboose made a train 6,166 feet in length.

Building Chinese Road.
Chinese projectors of the railway into the interior from Amoy are raising further capital for the road's extension by subscriptions among wealthy Chinese in Java. The road built so far was built very largely by capital from Chinese in Dutch East Indies.

New Roads in Chile.
The Chilean government has 1,677 miles of railroad completed and 1,340 miles under construction, while private interests have 1,920 miles completed and 100 under construction.

Foggy.
Bradley Martin Jr. was congratulated in New York on the successful issue of his recent trouble with the customs officers.

"There was a great difference of opinion as to whether or not I should be compelled to pay duty on my goods," said Mr. Martin. "Some of the reasons against my claim for free entrance were as vague and unsatisfactory as the city clerk's explanation of a sailing boat. I, however, could not accept this vague reasoning, as did the clerk's fiancée."

"Why do those boats," the young lady asked, "sail from one side of the river to the other, instead of going straight down?"

"Well, you see," said the clerk, "it's like this. When the wind blows crooked like, they have to go crooked, so as to go straight along—"

"How plain you do make it," exclaimed the young girl. "I never thought of that before."

All Is Not Gold That Glitters.
At the coronation pageant when George is crowned King George V of England, there is to be something entirely different from anything that has ever happened before.

Instead of real armor the armor that is to be worn will be made of "paper metal." There will be exact copies of all the old sets of armor used and the paper metal will be so fixed that the armor made from it will give the appearance of the original.

And it is said that in the future the "metal" will be used for almost all outdoor decorations, because it is much cheaper than plaster paris and water-proof.

It can be made to represent all the different metals and is so strong that one can jump on it without making any impression on it.

Foolish to Place Coins in Mouth.
American Medicine soothingly declares that many people are unnecessarily disturbed over the danger of infection from laundries, money and postage stamps. It says "some one has been alarming us because he found a few bacteria on gummed postage stamps, though he should have been satisfied if he had not found them." This medical authority adds: "Common sense tells us not to put dirty money in the mouth, for it may have recently been tucked away in a very dirty place, yet its germs are mostly dead and we can lay very little disease to its agency. Its evils are of another sort. Our clothing is boiled in the laundry and even if pus-washed it does not spread infection."

Church Maintained Theater.
St. Paul's cathedral in London actually maintained a theater during the reign of Elizabeth and the first years of the reign of James I. An adjacent building was used as a theater, and the actors were the boys of the choir. The company presented many of the most important plays of the time.

Taking Advantage.

The BRONZE BELL

AUTHOR OF "THE BRASS BOWL," ETC.

Amber finished bravely. "There was a girl at Quail's—a guest. But she left before I dared speak. Perhaps it was as well."

"Why?"

"Because she was too fine and sweet and good for me, Rutton."

"Like every man's first love."

The elder man's glance was keen—too keen for Amber to dissimulate successfully under it. "You're right," he admitted ruefully. "It's the first sure-enough trouble of the sort I ever experienced. And, of course, it had to be hopeless."

"Why?" persisted Rutton.

"Because I've half a notion there's a chap waiting for her at home."

"In England." The need for a confidant was suddenly imperative upon the younger man. "She's an English girl—half English, that is; her mother was an American, a schoolmate of Quail's wife; her father, an Englishman in the Indian service."

"Her name?"

"Sophia Farrell." A peculiar quality, a certain tenseness, in Rutton's manner, forced itself upon Amber's attention. "Why?" he asked. "Do you know the Farrells? What's the matter?"

Rutton's eyes met his steadily; out of the calm mask of his face, that suddenly had whitened beneath the brown, they gleamed, after but unseeing. His hands, which he had been twisting together with nervous force, the knuckles gray. Abruptly, as if abandoning the attempt to restrain his self-control, he jumped up and went quickly to a window, there to stand, his back to Amber, staring fixedly out into the storm-racked night. "I knew her father," he said at length, his tone constrained and odd. "Long ago, in India."

"He's out there now—a politician, I believe they call him, or something of the sort."

"Yes."

"Who's going out to rejoin him?"

"What?" Rutton came swiftly back to Amber, his voice shaking. "What did you say?"

"Why, yes. She travels with friends by the western route to join Colonel Farrell at Darkest, where he's stationed just now. Shortly after I came down she left; Mrs. Quail had a wife a day or so ago. Anyhow she was on the point of sailing from San Francisco. Good Lord, Rutton, are you ill?"

Something in the man's face had brought Amber to his feet, a prey to inexplicable concern; it was as if a mask had dropped and he were looking upon the soul of a man in mortal torture.

"No," gasped Rutton, "I'm all right. Besides, he added beneath his breath, so that Amber barely caught the syllables, "It's too late."

As rapidly as he had lost he seemed to regain mastery of his inexpressible emotion. His face became again composed, almost immobile, and stepping to the table he selected a cigarette and rolled it gently between his slim brown fingers. "I'm sorry to have alarmed you," he said, his tone a bit too even not to breed a doubt in the mind of his hearer. "It's nothing serious—a little trouble of the heart, of long standing, incurable—I hope."

Perplexed, yet hesitating to press him further, Amber watched him furtively, instinctively assured that between this man and the Farrells there existed some extraordinary bond; wondering how that could be, convinced in his soul that somehow the entanglement involved the woman he loved, he still feared to put his supposition to the question, lest he should learn that which he had no right to know.

And while he watched was startled by the change that came over Rutton. At once, a moment, outwardly composed, as if absorbed in thought, the next he was rigid, every muscle taut, every nerve taut as a steel spring. His head jerked back suddenly, his gaze flaring first upon the window, then shifting to the door. And his fingers, contracting, tore the cigarette in half.

"Rutton, what the deuce is the matter?"

Rutton seemed not to hear; Amber got his answer from the door, which was swung wide and slammed shut. A blast of frosty air and a flurry of snow swept across the room. And against the door there leaped a man puffing for breath and coughing spasmodically—a gross and monstrous bulk of flesh, unclean and unwholesome to the eye, attired in an extravagant array of colored garments, tawdry silks and satins clinging, and stiff to his ponderous and unwieldy limbs.

"The babu!" cried Amber unconsciously, and was rewarded by a flash of recognition from the coal-black, beady, evil eyes of the man.

But for that involuntary exclamation the tableau held unbroken for a space; Rutton standing transfixed, the torn halves of the cigarette between his fingers, his head well up and back, his stare level, direct, uncompromising, a steady challenge to the intruder.

Then, demanding Amber's silence with an imperative movement of his hand, Rutton spoke. "Well, babu," he said quietly, the shadow of a bitter and weary smile curling his thin, hard lips.

The Bengali moved a pace or two from the door, and plucked nervously at the throat of his shirt, finally managing to insert one hand in the folds of his sash and his other in the

"I seek," he said distinctly in Urdu, and not without a definite note of menace in his manner, "the man calling himself Rutton Sahib?"

Very deliberately Rutton inclined his head. "I am he."

"Huzoor!" The babu laboriously doubled up his enormous body in profound obeisance. Having recovered, he nodded to Amber with the easy familiarity of an old acquaintance. "To you, likewise, greeting, Amber Sahib."

"What!" Rutton swung sharply to Amber with an exclamation of amazement. "You know this fellow, David?"

The babu cut in hastily, stimulated by a pressing anxiety to clear himself. "Huzoor, I did but err, being misled by his knowledge of our tongue as well as by that pale look of you he wears. And, indeed, it is strange that I should take him for you, who was told to seek you in this wild land?"

"No silent!" Rutton told him angrily.

"My lord's will is his slave's." Rejoined the babu, folding his fat arms.

"Tell me about this," Rutton demanded of Amber.

"The ass ran across me in the woods south of the station, the day I came down," explained Amber, summarizing the episode as succinctly as he could. "He didn't call me by your name, but I've no doubt he's telling the truth about mistaking me for you. At all events he hazarded me a number of times, talked a lot of rot about some silly 'Voice,' and finally made me a free gift of a nice little bronze box that wouldn't open. After which he took to his heels, saying he'd call later by my answer—whatever he meant by that. He did call by night and stole the box. That's about all I know of him, thus far. But I'd watch out for a ravine, if I were you; if he isn't a flying lunatic, I miss my guess."

"Indeed, my lord, it is all quite as the sahib says," the babu admitted gracefully, his eyes gleaming with sardonic amusement. "Circumstances conspired to mislead me; but that I was swift to discover. Nor did I lose time in remedying the error, as you have heard. Moreover—"

He shut up suddenly at a sign from Rutton, with a ludicrous shrug of his huge shoulders disclaiming any ill-intent or wrongdoing; and while Rutton remained deep in thought by the table, the babu held silence, his gaze flickering suspiciously round the room.

At length Rutton looked up, suppressing a sigh. "Your errand, babu?"

"It is then, your will that I should speak before this man?" The Bengali nodded impudently at Amber.

"It is my will."

"Shahash! I hear a message, huzoor, from the Hall."

"You are the Mouthpiece of the Voice?"

"That honor is mine, huzoor. For the rest I am—"

"Hohari Lal Chatterji!" interrupted Rutton impatiently; "solicitor of the Inner Temple—disbarred; anointed thief, liar, jackal, hypocrite, and perjurer—I know you."

"My lord," said the man insolently, "omits from his catalogue of my accomplishments my chiefest honor; he forgets that, with him, I am an accepted Member of the Body."

"The Body wears strange members that employs you, babu," commented Rutton bitterly. "It has fallen upon evil days when such as you are charged with a message of the Hall."

"My lord is harsh to one who would be his slave in all things. Fortunately indeed am I to own the protection of the Token." A slow leer widened grotesquely upon his moon-like face.

"Ah, the Token!" Rutton repeated tensely, beneath his breath. "It is true that you have the Token?"

"Aye; it is even here, my lord." The heavy brown hand returned to the spot it had sought soon after the babu's entrance, within the folds of silk across his bosom, and groped therein for an instant. "Even here," he iterated with a maddening manner of supreme self-complacency, producing the bronze box and waddling over to drop it into Rutton's hand. "My lord is satisfied?" he gurgled maliciously.

Without answering Rutton turned the box over in his palm, his slender fingers playing about the bezels of the relief work; there followed a click and one side of it swung open. The Bengali cut back a pace with a whisper of awe—real or affected: "The Token, huzoor!" Amber himself gasped slightly.

Unheeded, the box dropped to the floor. Between Rutton's thumb and forefinger there blazed a great emerald set in a ring of red old gold. He turned it this way and that, inspecting it critically; and the lamp-light, catching on the facets, struck from it blinding shafts of intensely green radiance. Rutton nodded as if in recognition of the stone and, turning, with an effect of carelessness, tossed it to Amber.

"Keep that for me, David, please," he said. And Amber, catching it, dropped the ring into his pocket.

"My lord is satisfied with my credentials, then?" the babu persisted.

"It is the Token," Rutton answered wearily. "Now, your message, if brief."

"The utterances of the Voice be infrequent, huzoor, its words few—but charged with meaning; as you know of old." The Bengali drew himself up, holding up his head and rolling forth his phrases in a voice of great resonance and depth. "These be the words of the Voice, huzoor!"

"To All My Peoples!"

"Even now the Gateway of Swords yawns wide, that he who is without fear may pass within; to the end that the Body be purged of the Scarlet Evil."

"The Elect are bidden to the Ordeal with no exception."

The enormous accents subsided, and a tense wait ensued, none speaking. Rutton stood in stony apathy, his eyes lifted to a dim corner of the ceiling, his gaze—like his thoughts—perhaps ranging far beyond the dreary confines of the cabin in the dunes. Minute after minute passed, his making no sign, the babu poised before him in inscrutable triumph, watching him keenly with his black and evil eyes of a beast. Amber hung breathless upon the issue, sensing a conflict of terrible forces in Rutton's mind, but comprehending nothing of their nature. Rutton awoke as from a sleep.

"The Voice has spoken, babu," he said, not ungraciously, "and I have heard." And your answer, lord?"

"There is no answer."

"Huzoor!"

"I have said," Rutton confirmed, evenly, "there is no answer."

"You will obey?"

"That is between me and my God. Go back to the Hall of the Bell, he

"Till We Meet in the Hall of the Bell, Good Night."

hari Lal Chatterji, and deliver your report; say that you have seen me, that I have listened to the words of the Voice, and that I sent no answer."

"Huzoor, I may not. I am charged to return only with you."

"Make your peace with the Bell in what manner you will, babu; it is no concern of mine. Go, now, while yet time is granted you to avoid a longer journey this night."

"Huzoor!"

"Go," Rutton pointed to the door, his voice imperative.

He rolled sluggishly toward the door, dragging his inadequate overcoat across his barrel-like chest; and paused to cough affectingly, with one hand on the knob. Rutton eyed him contemptuously.

"If you care to run the risk," he said suddenly, "you may have a chair by the fire till the storm breaks, babu."

"Beg pardon?" The babu's eyes widened. "Oah, yes; I see. 'If I care to run risk.' Very considerate of you, I'm sure. But as we are in Bengal, these favors of kings are as a sword of two edges." Noah, thanks; the servants of the Bell do not finger by waver, so as to speak. Goodnight, I am in great haste. Master Amber, good night. Rutton Sahib—"an revoir; I mean to say, till we meet in the Hall of the Bell. Good night!"

He nodded insolently to the man whom a little time since he had hailed as "my lord," shrugged his coat collar up round his fat, dirty neck, slithered in anticipation, jerked the door open and plunked ponderously out.

A second later Amber saw the confused mass of his turban glide past the window.

LUXURY OF ANCIENT EGGS.

A chef, discussing the evils of cold storage, said with a smile:

"And yet the Chinese, who are great gourmets, adore eggs three or four years old, eggs that have turned quite green."

"Don't think they are ordinary had eggs, these green chaps, though. If you've eaten Chinese food—gosh y main, yolk amey, sea slugs, birds' nest soup—you'll know better than that. The Chinese are gourmets, and their ancient eggs are ripened like fine cheese."

"It is a science. The eggs, I believe, spend nine months in a hot temperature, buried in sawdust, another nine months in a cool temperature, buried in chalk. And so forth and so on."

"They are green in the end, and they have an unpleasant, putrid odor. But Roquefort cheese is green, and its odor, too, is putrid and unpleasant."

"Mr. Wu, when he last dined here, told me that green eggs of the 1906 vintage cost $2 to $3 apiece in Canton."—Washington Post.

WHY SO WEAK

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Jansville People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Jansville testimony to prove it.

Benjamin Schuller, 269 S. River St., Jansville, Wis., says:—"Two years ago I had a great deal of trouble from inactive kidneys. The secretions from my kidneys contained sediment and were otherwise disordered. My back became so lame that it was difficult for me to stoop or lift and I felt all run down. After using Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, these symptoms of kidney complaint disappeared and I enjoyed much better health. I could not be induced to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills were I not certain of their merits."

RUPTURE

Its Cured Without the Knife and Without Pain. Doing Away With Your Truss Forever.

Rupture or Hernia or Breach as it is sometimes called may show itself at different places in the body, thus it may occur at the navel, at the femoral ring, the bowel descending down the inner side of the thigh, or the most common through the inguinal canal on either side of the pubic bone in the groin.

Rupture may be caused by a great many different causes, such as over lifting, straining at stool, severe coughing, blows on the abdomen, or from severe crying in infancy.

Rupture is an insidious disease—that is it gradually grows worse from day to day and from month to month, without attracting the particular attention of the victim, until it has reached a severe condition. And the sufferer who makes no attempt to check its growth awakes finally to the fact that he or she is in a serious condition.

Remember all big ruptures were little ruptures once, hence the importance of attending to these matters at their beginning.

Eight out of every ten ruptures can be cured without operation or the use of the knife. Two out of every ten can be cured only by a surgical operation.

The method which I have used so successfully for the past ten years in curing rupture is accomplished by the injection of a few drops of a healing and curative fluid into the tissues. This simple and painless procedure causes a growth of natural tissue which seals up the rupture opening and replaces the torn in the muscle by your natural tissue. In fact, after you have taken your treatments and are cured you will be stronger and more solid than you are on the other side where you have no rupture and a recurrence of your rupture on the treated side is absolutely impossible.

In the last few years certain physicians have been experimenting with hot paraffin or wax as an injection but this method up to the present time has not been a success, first because the body rebels at the introduction of a foreign substance into the tissues and secondly because the wax is liable to break up on becoming hard and leave the patient in worse shape than when he started. And I want to warn you right here, beware of the doctor who promises to cure you in one treatment, for he will use the paraffin method. If this way of curing rupture had proved a success I should be using it today, but such is not the case.

The method I use has been exclusively used by Dr. E. D. Potter, of New York, the leading specialist of this country in the cure of rupture, for the past twenty years and he as well as myself have scores of letters from people whom we have cured to prove our claims. And I have several among my collection from people right here in Jansville, Wis.

These treatments are practically painless and do not interfere with you in the pursuit of your daily occupation. There is no suffering and above all this treatment gives you a perfect lasting cure for all time without your being confined to your bed for a single minute. And it cures you safely.

You may say to yourself: "My rupture does not bother me, I have a truss that holds it in place, why should I bother to have it treated?"

The first and best reason why you should not allow such a condition to exist is that you never can tell when through a slip or a fall, or a sudden strain, your rupture is liable to come down and become fast or strangulated. When such a thing does happen it means that if this condition is not relieved by operation in 48 hours, most gangrene, or a rotting of the bowel will take place and you will die.

If you will look through the death lists of any city you will be surprised to see how many people die each year from such causes, and to say simply because they have put off having their ruptures cured.

Secondly any man or woman who has a rupture is in reality only half what they should be in strength or vigor. Such a condition not only impairs your life and happiness, but it lessens your earning power, for a ruptured person is kept from doing many things they otherwise could do if well. I do not think I need mention also the annoyance and misery suffered by those who wear trusses. If you are a slave to a truss or other appliance you know what it would mean to be rid of this torture forever.

In regard to cases which I accept for treatment, I want you to distinctly understand that I do not under any circumstances accept incurable cases for treatment. No case do I take for treatment unless I know positively that I can cure to stay cured, for in every case I do accept for treatment I give you a written, legal guarantee to cure or refund every cent you have paid me.

After I have examined you I will tell you frankly and truthfully whether you can be cured by this method without operation, about how long it will take for a perfect cure and the cost. If I find that I cannot cure you I will frankly tell you so and advise you where and when you can best be operated.

I operate on a great many that can not be cured otherwise, but as I have said eight out of every ten can be cured without an operation. If to satisfy yourself that what I state is true and you wish to investigate my claims I will gladly give you the names of many right here in this state, some in Jansville whom you may ask or write and they will tell you just what I have done for them. Can you ask any stronger proof? Many, not all, of my cured cases have given me the privilege to refer to them in this way.

The cost of my treatment depends of course upon the severity of the case. No matter what your age may be, nor how long you have had your rupture, or what you have done in trying to get cured, it is not too bad a case if it can be cured. I have treated and cured children of two years of age and men over eighty years old.

To sum up here are the advantages of being cured by my method: You can take your treatment without losing any time from your work.

You do not have to leave home and go to a hospital.

You do not have to take any chloroform or ether.

You suffer no pain.

You take no chances of your rupture returning, you are cured to stay cured.

You have no expense of a hospital.

Your treatment is sure and safe.

You are protected by a written guarantee.

If you have a rupture or if you are interested, on account of any member of your family or friend come and see me and I will tell you what can be done.

Such a visit will cost you nothing but your time and may be the means of your getting rid of this annoying condition for the balance of your life.

I do not claim anything I cannot prove and I do prove everything I claim.

If you cannot call personally write to me at Milwaukee and your letter will receive my personal attention.

My charges are reasonable and within the reach of all, and I am always willing and glad to make terms of payments suitable to your financial condition.

If you have delayed being cured on account of the financial end of the matter do so no longer, but come and see what I can do. I am sure we can make terms satisfactory to you both.

And I can assure you that if you take my treatment and are cured you will never regret either the time or money spent in getting well. Consultation free.

I shall be at the Myers Hotel Tuesday, March 28th, and every four weeks thereafter. Kindly call before 5:30 P. M.
